DISCOVER CORFU

The princess of the Ionian Sea will enchant you in every place you visit

Corfu or Kerkyra is a Greek island in the Ionian Sea, of the Ionian Islands, and, including its small satellite islands, forms the margin of the northwestern frontier of Greece. The island is bound up with the history of Greece from the beginnings of Greek mythology, and is marked by numerous battles and conquests. Ancient Korkyra took part in the Battle of Sybota which was a catalyst for the Peloponnesian War, and, according to Thucydides, the largest naval battle between Greek city states until that time. Thucydides also reports that Korkyra was one of the three great naval powers of fifth century BC Greece, along with Athens and Corinth.

In 2007, the city's old town was added to the UNESCO World Heritage List, following a recommendation by ICOMOS. The island is a popular tourist destination.

The first governor of independent Greece after the revolution of 1821, founder of the modern Greek state, and distinguished European diplomat Ioannis Kapodistrias was born in Corfu.

Archaeological Museum

The Archaeological Museum of Kerkyra, which inaugurated its reoperation in 2018, houses antiquities from the ancient city of Kerkyra and the rest of the island. Its 1,600 exhibits present the history of the island from the Prehistoric period to Late Antiquity. The monumental pediment of the Temple of Artemis, bearing a representation of Gorgon, is of remarkable significance as it is the oldest preserved stone pediment of ancient Greek architecture.

Byzantine Collection of Kerkyra

The Byzantine Collection of Kerkyra is housed in a designated area at the central gate of the Old Fortress. The collection includes, among others, mosaics from the early Christian basilica of Palaïopolis, detached fragments of frescoes from the Byzantine church of Agios Nikolaos in Korakiana, as well as sculptural architectural elements from Palaïopolis and other Byzantine monuments of the island, outlining the history and culture of Medieval Kerkyra.

Antivouniotissa Museum

The Antivouniotissa Museum is housed in the Church of Theotokos - "Kyra Antivouniotissa", one of the oldest ecclesiastical monuments of the city of Kerkyra, dating back to the end of the 15th century. The museum's collection consists of important artworks dating from the 15th to the 20th century. They fully reflect six centuries of religious artistic expression and production in Kerkyra.

Museum of Palaïopolis

The Museum of Palaïopolis-Mon Repos is located on the Mon Repos Estate. It is housed in the homonymous villa built during the British occupation by High Commissioner Frederic Adam (1828-1831) and it is a typical example of neoclassical architecture of the Regency era (Regency-style). On the ground floor, various memorabilia of the British occupation are exhibited, while, on the first floor, antiquities from the archaeological site of Palaïopolis can be seen on display.

The Great Meteoron Monastery

Also known as the Holy Monastery of the Metamorfosis (Transfiguration of Christ), is a male monastery and is the oldest and largest of all the monasteries of Meteora.

The Great Meteoron Monastery

The foundation of the Monastery of Great Meteoron is the starting point of the organized life at Meteora. Perched on the most imposing rock, it occupies a commanding position among the monastic complex of Meteora. It's the largest and most formal of the extant Meteora Monasteries as its name implies.

The Great Meteoron was founded shortly before the middle of the 14th century by Saint Athanasios the Meteorite, who was also its first founder and the first to organize a systematic monastic community. Ioannis-Ioasaph was son of Greek Serbian King of Thessaly and Epirus Symeon Uressis Palaelogos whose seat was Trikala.

The Great Meteoron through endless adventures and persecutions during the last six centuries continued uninterrupted its monastic presence and radiance and kept an important part of its treasures and its priceless national and religious heirlooms. At the sanctum of the catholic there are important frescos of the Macedonian school and the remarkable frescos of the main church and the narthex are believed to be created by Georgie, student of Theophanous the Cretan. At the above Holy Monastery are the chapels of the Mother of God (Virgin Mary of the Meteorite Stone), of Holy Baptist, of Saint Equal Apostles Constantine and Helen and of Saint Nektarios (more modern). The most important buildings are the centre (kitchen), the old age home, the "trapeza"(dining hall) and others.

Probably one of the most interesting parts of the monastery is the sacristy which contain shelves of the skulls of the monks who have lived there over the years. Great Meteoron monastery serves as the main museum for visitors to Meteora. It remains a true bastion of orthodox monasticism, a real bulwark of Christianity and a holy ark of our national and religious tradition.

Meteora Tour

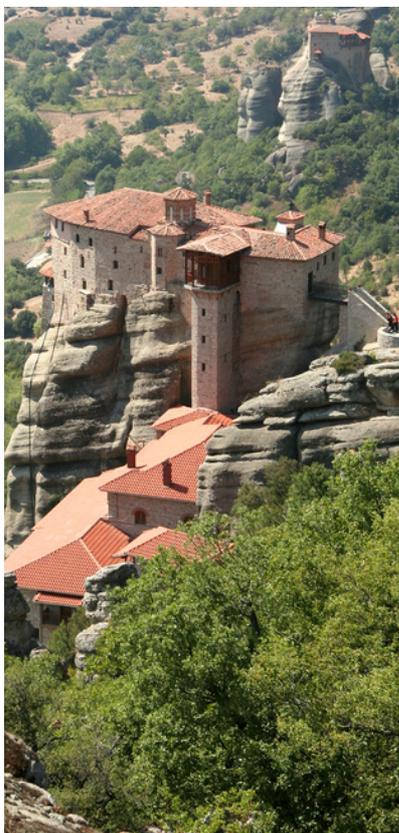

Recommended excursion

A trip to Meteora offers the unique experience of nature's grandeur in conjunction with history, architecture and man's everlasting desire to connect with the Divine.

From the early Christian times, the Meteora vertical cliffs were regarded as the perfect place to achieve absolute isolation, to discover peace and harmony and, thus, to support man's eternal struggle for spiritual elevation.

Meteora is a truly inspiring and sensational setting of overwhelming rock formations, but one must also be prepared to expect that this trip is much more than merely visiting an exquisite landscape.

It is a pilgrimage to a holy place for all Christians around the world. Meteora has become a preservation ark for the 2000-year-old Christian Orthodox creed.
